Excerpt from the Declaration of Independence	What the Excerpt Means
1. “When in the course of human events it becomes necessary for one people to dissolve the political bands which have connected them with another...a decent respect to the opinions of mankind requires that they should declare the causes which impel them to the separation.”
2. “We hold these truths to be self-evident, that all men are created equal; that they are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable rights; that among these are life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness.”
3. “To secure these [basic] rights, governments are instituted among men, deriving their just powers from the consent of the governed.”
4. “That whenever any form of government becomes destructive ‘in protecting rights and responding to the people], it is the right of the people to alter or abolish it, and to institute a new government.”
5. “The history of the present King of Great Britain is a history of repeated injuries and usurpations, all having, in direct object, the establishment of an absolute tyranny over these States.”
6. “To prove [that England has interfered with colonial rights], let the facts be submitted to a candid world: He has refused to assent to laws the most wholesome and necessary for the public good.”
7. “In every state of these oppressions, we have petitioned for redress in the most humble terms; our repeated petitions have been answered only by repeated injury. A prince whose character is thus marked by every act which may define a tyrant is unfit to be the ruler of a free people.”
8. “We, therefore...solemnly publish and declare, that these united colonies are, and of right ought to be, free and independent states...”

Creating Terms of the Treaty of Paris, 1783

Overview: You are Benjamin Franklin and the year is 1783. The Revolutionary War is finally over and the Americans have won. You have been in Paris since 1776 trying to negotiate an alliance with the French and now your assignment is to negotiate the terms of peace to formally end the war. To do this, consider the following questions.

Question 1: What were the major goals of the American colonists when the Revolutionary War began? (You will need to consider what Americans wanted at the beginning to ensure that these demands are met now that the war is over).

Question 2: What major countries should be impacted by the terms of this treaty? List all the countries that played a role in the American Revolution and describe whether they should be rewarded or not for their role in the war.

Question 3: How should the North American continent be divided now that the war is over? Consider the territorial boundaries of the Europeans, American colonists, and Native Americans. Use the map to help consider territorial changes.

Question 4: After considering each of the above questions, list 3-5 terms that you feel should be included in this treaty.
